The Victims of the Factory Fire.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29—Jas. Nolan, owner, and [illegible] Johnston, occupant of the old Globe mill, [who] on Wednesday last were to-day committed [to p]rison to await trial on a charge of criminal [neglect] in not providing proper means of escape for operatives. The charge is based on the [verdict] of the jury to-day in the case of Ellen and Mary J. Patterson who came to their [death] by fire the jury finding the death of the victims the result of such negligence. The funeral of [Mr]. [illegible] and Mrs. Patterson took place to-day [and was] largely attended. The former leaves a [husband] and seven children, the oldest 13 years [and the] youngest babe. A little over a year ago a [fire oc]curred in the mill and Mrs. Hoever jumped [from the] second story window with a girl under [each arm] and saved their lives by the action. Her act of heroism lost her life.

Gold.

[NEW] YORK, July 29.—The special firmness in gold, sales up to 112¾, was caused partly by [rumors] of the repeal of the specie resumption [act]. Washington dispatches say the probabilities of silver bill becoming a law are good.

[illegible] of [illegible]r's Death on the Memphis Cotton Trade.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Memphis, Tennessee, has [begun] to mourn the death of Commodore Garner, [who] was the [largest] cotton buyer in that market [and] purchased about 30,000 bales a year. Memphis [illegible] and local papers are expressing some anxiety [that] lost purchases may hereafter be made elsewhere.

Mother of Charlie Ross.

[The] mother of Charlie Ross is stopping at Brockton, with her five remaining children. She [believes] that her boy will yet be recovered or that [she will] receive positive evidence of his death.

[illegible] Escape of a Deranged Girl.

[NEW] YORK, July 29—Some excitement was occasioned in Fulton street yesterday by the efforts of [a young] and handsome woman to escape from a [carriage]. Her name was Miss Johnson, and she [was] with her mother to the Mansion House [illegible]. Miss Johnson is the daughter of one [of the proprietors] of the Grand Union hotel in San [Francisco]. For some time back she has been suffering [from] mental derangement, and she was [brought] to Brooklyn for treatment by physicians [of this] city. In her struggle to get out of the carriage she attracted the attention of detective Bulb, [who] from the cries of the young lady, thought an [attempt] was being made to abduct her. When he [learned the] circumstances of the case he lent his [aid], and the unfortunate girl was taken to [the Man]sion House without further trouble.

Thieves' Rend[illegible].

[NEW] YORK, July 29—Some months ago the discovery was made that the attic of a school house [at] [illegible], L. I., was used as a rendezvous of [thieves]. Among other evidence found, were clothing, bones of fowls, etc. No trace of those who occupied the [attic], however, was found. Last week [the trustees] of the school having decided to make extensive repairs to the building, the workmen [com]menced and were soon astonished to find the [illegible] was now [illegible] recently occupied as the [illegible] been before. On removing the melodeon, [which stoo]d near the teacher's desk, they discovered [what] appeared to be a trap door cut through [the] boards so neatly as hardly to attract notice. They lifted it with some difficulty, and found [it] was held in place by a rope, at the end of [which was] a stone weighing about sixty pounds. [Below] [illegible] was an excavation under the [floor] four and five feet in depth, the earth from [which] had been piled up between the beams of the [floor]. Here were found sugar loaf stone, sixty [volumes] from the school library, blankets, pots, [kettles], and many other articles. The whole [showed] traces of recent occupancy, as the blankets [were fre]sh and some of the utensils had been re[cently used]. Who the persons are that occupied [it] is at present unknown; but there is a suspicion that one of them is a notorious offender, [named] Knight, who several years ago had a [illegible] under the roof of Zion church at Li[illegible], and who was arrested and sent to the [illegible]. His term expired some months ago, [and he] has been seen about his old quarters.

[illegible]western Crop Reports.

[illegible], Ohio, July 29.—The Blade's crop reports [from] counties in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and [illegible] [show] nearly a full average wheat crop in [quantity] and superior quality. Corn is nearly a [failure]. In Illinois, Indiana and Michigan [there will] be an enormous crop of potatoes. Hay [is a good] crop, and fruit generally will be abundant.

Grasshoppers in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, July 28—Grasshoppers have overrun [a] part of this State and many farmers [are] suffering in the shape of crops. The [damage] done by them, however, so far is not wide[spread] [illegible] pounds of the section alluded to [illegible] much.

[illegible] of the Crop in Iowa.

[illegible], July 29—In many wheat fields in this [State the] reaper was put to work this week and [illegible] the grain not being worth harvesting. [illegible] only on their old crops, or buy grain [illegible]. Not one in ten will raise enough for [seed]. This condition of the crop extends [through] [illegible] Dale [illegible] and [illegible]. [It is] the worst failure known in several [years]. [Chin]ch bugs and [illegible] flies have [done the] work completely.

[illegible] Wool Market.

SPORTING NEWS.

[CLEVEL]AND, Ohio, July 28.—In the 2:26 race to-day, [illegible] won, Manzanianic second; time, 2:26¾, 2:25¾, 2:27, 2:27¾. In the 2:20 class, May [illegible], Barus second, time, 2:26½, 2:26½, 2:27½. [A mi]le dash was won by Waddell in 3 45¼. [This ends] the races here.

Saratoga Races.

[SARATOGA], July 28.—The third day's racing is on [a fast] track and before a large crowd of sports. The first race, Flash stakes, for two year olds, half a mile, brought out Lady of the Lake, [illegible], Idalia, Lady Salyers, Princeton, Leonard [and] the Puryear filly. The race was won by Zoo[illegible], Leonard second, Puryear third, time, 51½. [The] second race for the Saratoga cup, was regarded the principal race of the meeting. There [were three starters]—W. Lorillard's Tom Ochiltree, [McDanie]l's Parole, and McDaniel's Madge and [illegible]. In the pools before the start Parole sold [illegible], Tom Ochiltree $600, and McDaniel's $250. Ochiltree won by a length, Parole second. Big [illegible] third; time, 4:06½, distance 2¼ miles. [The] dash for three year olds was won by [illegible], Coulter second, Waco third, time 1 48. [The] race was a selling race for all ages, one [mile an]d a quarter. Camargo although sold in the [pools] was withdrawn. Six started—Grey Nun, [illegible], Pluto, Virtue, Spendthrift and Paperma[illegible]. [illegible] won, Grey Nun second, Spendthrift [third]; time, 2:14.

Winner of the Goodwood Cup Challenged by Preakness.

[illegible] Sanford has proposed a match between his [Prea]kness and New Holland, winner of the [Good]wood cup, on the same terms, except the [weight] to be 28 pounds higher.

Prize Fight.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29—A prize fight took place [to-day] on the Delaware near Trenton between [illegible] Keenan and James Collins, both of this city. Sixty-four rounds were fought, lasting an hour [and] [illegible] eight minutes. Keenan was victorious, [Collins] being out of time.

The Ocean Yacht Race.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The Evening Post publishes [an account] of the ocean yacht race for the Bennett [cup], taken from the log of the victorious Idler. At [illegible] the start Idler was in the van. An accident befell the Tidal Wave at the very beginning, and she was compelled to take in foresail for repairs. At 7:30 P. M. yesterday the Idler was abreast [of the] Island, and at that time the Tidal Wave and [illegible] were first visible on the horizon. The [illegible] was hull down seven miles astern, the [Countess] of Dufferin was invisible. At 10 P. M. the [breeze was] light and at 3 P. M. it died out altogether, when the Idler was within half a mile of the light ship. A breeze then sprung up from the westward heading the yacht off, but after several tacks, she succeeded in rounding the light ship and winning the race at 12:30 A. M. The Idler wins, beating Wanderer 2 hours 11 minutes and 14 seconds. The [illegible] and Countess of Dufferin passed to the northward instead of southward of the light ship as required.

The Times says the yacht race shows that the Idler carried off the Bennett challenge cup. Wanderer second. Countess of Dufferin badly defeated.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The Sundry Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 29—The sundry civil appropriation bill, if the President withholds his signature, will not become a law on Monday next as has been stated, for Sundays are not counted in the ten days at the end of which if Congress is still in session, the bill becomes law without his signature. This bill was sent to the President on Friday 21st inst., and unless approved by him cannot become law until Wednesday, Aug. 2d. The 11 days provisional act expires Monday, July 31st, so that Tuesday, which is above the contingency, will be unprovided for and the lighthouse establishment and other branches of the public service not otherwise appropriated for will have to suspend operations on that day unless some steps be taken to prevent embarrassing or disastrous results that might ensue.

Ordway Refused a Hearing.

CHICAGO, July 29.—The Tribune's Washington special says Glover's committee to-day again refused to permit ex-Sergeant-at-Arms Ordway to testify, though he has been waiting here 10 days. The committee even refused to fix a time for hearing him. The charges against Ordway are utterly untenable.

Debate on Robeson's Case.

The House debate to-day on the naval committee's report against Robeson couldn't have reassured the Democrats. In one day this session have so many speeches of marked ability been made and the fact was made evident that the majority of the naval committee have violated their sense of honor. For four months the doors of the committee room were closed and an injunction of secrecy placed on the lips of every committeeman and on every person who entered the room. Hundreds of witnesses from every part of the country were examined. These witnesses were all discharged, and 4,000 printed pages of testimony taken before the doors were opened. Then the testimony was handed to the Secretary of the Navy and he was told that he could answer it. These points were very strongly presented in the debate as well as other facts from which it appears that the testimony had been deliberately suppressed which tended to vindicate the reputation of many of the bureau officers who have grown gray in service, and whose reputation the Democrats seek to ruin in one general condemnation. The Democrats winced under these points, and Whitthorne driven to a corner said he would explain some of them. The report acknowledged that, after two months investigation it was uncertain whether Robeson should or should not be impeached.

The Silver Bill.

It appears to be conceded that if the silver bill can ever be brought to a vote it will pass the House and there is little doubt the Senate will concur. The difficulty is still to discover means for bringing it to a vote. Those having it in charge are confident it will be voted on next week, and those who are opposed to it indicate their intention for it. Justifying themselves on the ground that they cannot withstand the sentiment in their committees, as a new element has entered into the question by the rise in silver, Kelly and others who are now prominent supporters of the bill, opposed a similar bill when silver was more valuable than the greenback. It is conceded, therefore, for consistency, that these classes of men will necessarily abandon this bill if silver continues to increase in value.

The Indian Question.

The action of the Indian committee yesterday in rejecting a portion of the report of the Indian Commissioner, is likely to result in the adoption of a report which will approve the present administration of that bureau and will declare there is nothing whatever in the evidence to warrant any charges against that officer. In this report there is little doubt the majority of the Democrats will be obliged to concur.

Louisiana.

There will be a minority report from the Louisiana committee unless the Democrats consent to stick to the facts. It is claimed the report on Conshatta matters is prejudiced and that Donnel will make a minority report of the sub committee investigating that subject.

Compromise River and Harbor Bill.

A proposition will be made to frame a compromise river and harbor appropriation bill, appropriating $5,000,000. A large lobby is here working for that bill. Senate appropriations committee acting under instructions of the Senate to revise the river and harbor bill and reduce its aggregate to $5,000,000, have to-day prepared a bill, which will be reported Monday and passed without amendment, or else fail altogether, unless the present determination of the Republican Senators is then changed, which is extremely improbable. This bill contains only the following for the Pacific coast: $30,000 for furnishing training walls and dredging between at Oakland harbor, $40,000 for the improvement of San Joaquin river, $15,000 for Sacramento river, $20,000 for Upper Willamette, $15,000 for Upper Columbia and Snake rivers, $20,000 for the Columbia river below Portland and $90,000 for a canal and locks at the Cascades of the Columbia, of which $10,000 is to be devoted to purchasing the right of way. The House items of $30,000 for Wilmington and $12,000 for Monterey harbor are omitted. Wigginton will endeavor to save them in the House, but they have no chance of reinstatement by the Senate, especially as Monterey was dropped from the former bill by a vote of the Senate, and Jones opposes any appropriation for Wilmington on the ground that it would be of no benefit except to C. P. roads. Other reductions cannot be successfully opposed in view of the general reduction throughout the bill. The provisions for surveys at San Luis Obispo, Coos Bay, Coquille river and McKenzie river are left untouched. The ultimate fate of the bill is still uncertain.

The Chinese Question.

Final action on the Chinese question for this session has been taken this week, as foreshadowed last Saturday by the Senate passing House bill applying $75,000 for expenses of the Congressional investigation on the Pacific coast during recess. The national Republican committee have printed 25,000 copies of Sargent's speech on the evils of Chinese immigration, which will be distributed throughout the country as campaign documents. Sargent will himself distribute 5,000 of them. He has already sent out 5,000 copies previously printed at his own expense.

Other Pacific Coast Measures.

The continued engrossment of time by the impeachment trial and loss of two days by adjournment on account of Caperton's death and funeral, have debarred any attempt to pass the Hawaiian treaty bill or any other Pacific coast measures in the Senate this week. Such causes have also rendered it next to impossible to secure action in the House on any business out of the daily regular order. The probabilities are now that the Senate will decide the Belknap impeachment case by Wednesday, and that both houses will reconcile differences on the appropriation bills in time for adjournment at the close of the week, though this outlook may be changed in a few days. It is nevertheless evident the reasonable chances for enacting the measures are still incomplete at this late stage of the session unless an attempt is made to rush it through under suspension of the rules or by passing bills from tables of presiding officers without reference to committee. Sargent will thus try on Monday to pass the Asiatic telegraph bill from the speaker's table and Lane will offer for passage under suspension of the rules a general bill recommended by the public lands committee for sale of desert lands. The enactment of Page's bill granting right of way for a wagon road from Chinese camp to Yosemite is found to be unnecessary as the general law is discovered sufficient for that purpose.

Page and Wiltshire, Democrats of Arkansas, have been appointed by House Indian affairs committee as sub-committee of two to prepare report on the voluminous mass of testimony taken by it concerning the Indian service and management.

The votes of the Pacific coast members on Lamar's motion to pass the Senate bill extending the time for the completion of the Northern Pacific Railroad were as follows: Lane, Wigginton and Woodburn aye; Page, Piper and Luttrell no. All six voted for the passage of Kelley's bill to revive the old silver dollar with unlimited tender power.

Mullett to be Reinstated.

The World's Washington special says, There is good authority for predicting the removal of Supervising Architect Potter within a few days and the lifting up again of Mullett. The latter's friends are working hard and got some assurances from Grant on Saturday that makes them hopeful.

In Conference.

The committee of conference on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill were in session late last night and progressed toward an agreement. The communication from the Secretary of the Treasury informed the committee that the proposed reduction of clerical force would cripple the public service, but furnished a schedule excluding places where reduction will do the least harm. In case contemplated compromise should prove a legislative ultimatum another meeting will be held to-day.

The Lafayette Courier of the 29th says: "Young Chenette of Hillsboro, was lodged in jail last night at this place for stealing a horse from some one at Wapato lake. He says (so we are informed) that he wanted to go to a friend's house and seeing a horse handy thought it best to ride. He had an examination at North Yamhill, and in default of bonds was committed."

A sand-hill crane who has apparently lost all interest in cranedom, has associated himself with the geese on a Douglas county ranch, and to all intents and purposes concluded to make a goose of itself.

POLITICAL.

The Tilden and Hendricks Courtship.

SARATOGA, July 28—Tilden arrived this evening at the U. S. hotel. He was soon called on by Hendricks and they with Lieut. Gov. Dorsheimer went out riding, returning in about four hours. They seem to be in full accord, having a good understanding with each other, and emphatically deny all reports of disagreements.

NEW YORK, July 29—The Times' Saratoga special says Gov. Dorsheimer, who is here, says the letters of acceptance will certainly not be ready before next week and denies any other reason for delay than that Tilden has been too busy with the affairs of his office to give proper attention to the matter.

Tilden Threatens to Decline.

It is reported on good authority that Tilden has informed Cox and other prominent Democratic congressmen that he will decline acceptance and leave the party without a Presidential candidate, in case the House passes any bill to repeal any existing law providing for resumption of specie payment.

Encouraging Reports for the Republican Ticket.

The Times' Columbus special says very encouraging reports are being received here by the friends of Hayes and Wheeler, from all parts of the Union. Everywhere the Republicans are confident and gaining strength. Brady, of Indiana, and others from various States called on Hayes to-day and gave glowing accounts of Republican accessions in their different localities.

Disaffection in the Democratic Ranks.

Evidences crop out in various ways that a considerable body of soft money Democrats in Ohio are not yet reconciled to the St. Louis nominations and don't propose to be. It is authentically stated that the programme of these recusants is to vote the regular Democratic ticket in October, and the Peter Cooper ticket in November. The greatest Democratic strength will therefore be developed in the October election, when State officers and Congressmen are to be chosen.

Ewing of Lancaster, has announced himself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination in this district, against Walling, present incumbent now serving his first term. Ewing presented the soft money minority report on resolutions at the St. Louis convention and proposes now to fight it out on that line with Senator Thurman who resides in the district and whose views are supposed to be reflected by Mr. Walling. The district is strongly Democratic and the contest for the nomination will be a bitter one.

The Campaign in Ohio.

The Times' Cincinnati special says: The campaign in this State is progressing finely. Encouraging reports are coming from various quarters. The people are more united than ever. The Germans of Ohio may be relied on for Hayes.

The Latest Democratic Outrage.

NEW YORK, July 28—Republican papers are incensed at the action of the House in keeping Goode in his seat.

It has transpired that the seating of Goode instead of Platte as member of the House from West Virginia, was the result of a bargain between Southern friends of Goode and friends of Tilden. Goode is a member of the currency committee and voted with the soft money men until recently. The Tilden men have been working with the Southerners to stave off any action this session on the resumption act and the Southerners agreed not to vote for repeal of the act if Goode was seated. At least but one of this committee absented himself and will not act with the soft money men again it is understood at this session. Under these circumstances the Tilden men were willing to give Goode his seat, and their vote for him constitute the consideration for his non action on the resumption act. The bargain is so secure that Tilden finds he can trust to it and will accordingly give his letter of acceptance early next week, probably Tuesday morning.

Arkansas Republican Convention.

LITTLE ROCK, July 28—The Republican State Convention adjourned to-day. Following are the nominations: A. W. Bishop, Governor; W. I. Phelan, State Secretary; A. C. Rogers, Treasurer; J. R. Berry, Auditor; Gen. H. A. Pierce, Attorney. The resolutions indorse the National Republican ticket, the one term principle and civil service reform as recommended by Hayes, declare the Republican party, in elevating to citizenship the colored race, is entitled to continued confidence, demand civil and political recognition of all men, denounce the present State government, oppose repudiation, favor free schools, and invite the co-operation of liberal Democrats. A conference was ordered with the other wing of the Republican party to adjust differences.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, July 28.

The House amendments to the Washington monument bill were agreed to and the bill passed.

Ingalls called up the House bill for the sale of the Osage ceded lands in Kansas to actual settlers.

Logan moved to lay the bill aside and take up the House bounty bill; rejected. Yeas, 20; nays, 27.

The Senate then proceeded with the consideration of the bill in regard to the Osage ceded lands, the pending question being on the motion of Edmunds to strike out the 8th section, which provided for payment by the United States of the costs and necessary expenses incurred in prosecuting two suits against the Leavenworth, Lawrence and Galveston Railroad Company and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad Company to test the validity of a portion of the lands claimed by these companies.

Wright submitted a substitute for the eighth section so as to provide only for payment of fees for attorneys retained by the settlers in the suits against the railroad companies.

Allison moved an amendment to substitute so as to provide that the balance of the proceeds of the sale of land after payment of attorneys' fees shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Indian civilization fund authorized by treaty with the Osage Indians.

Pending discussion Allison from conference committee on the military academy appropriation bill, made a report; ordered printed and laid over till Monday.

Thurman gave notice that at the earliest opportunity he would ask the Senate to take up and consider a motion submitted by him some time ago to reconsider the vote by which the bill in reference to counting the vote for President and Vice President, was passed.

Senate resumed consideration of the Indian bill. The amendment of Allison in regard to covering proceeds of sales into the treasury, etc., was agreed to, as also the substitute of Wright for the 8th section in regard to payment of attorney's fees.

The question then recurred on motion of Edmunds to strike out the 8th section of the bill, as perfected by Wright and Allison, and it was agreed to: yeas 26, nays 11.

Ingalls moved to amend so as to provide that the price of land shall be $1 25 per acre instead of $1 40; agreed to.

Pending discussion Senate adjourned till Monday.

House.

Consideration of the Virginia contested election case of Platte vs. Goode was continued. The discussion was continued till 2 o'clock when a vote was taken on the resolution reported by the minority that Goode, sitting member, is entitled to his seat; adopted.

In accordance with parliamentary laws a second vote was taken on agreeing to the resolution as amended, namely with substitution of the minority resolution, ayes 107, nays 97. So Goode retains his seat. Among the Democrats who voted no were Durand, Ely, Kerr, New and Wiltshire. Several other Democrats voted no on the first vote, and Abbot who was some time since declared entitled to Frost's seat came forward and was sworn in and took his seat as a member.

On motion of Banning the resolution to remove the charge of desertion from Nelson Tiffany, of the 24th Massachusetts Volunteers was taken up and passed.

The House then proceeded with consideration of report of committee on naval affairs. After a speech by Lewis in support of the majority report, the matter went over without action.

Randall, from conference committee on the military bill, submitted a report of the committee, which was adopted. Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Hill called up bill passed by both Houses extending time for redemption of lands sold for direct taxes, to have it amended so as to exclude the possibility of its being construed to effect the National cemetery bill; so amended and passed.

Reports of committee on naval affairs were passed.

After a protracted debate the matter by operation of the previous question went over till Monday. Recess till 8.

The evening session lasted till 10 o'clock and was for general debate. A large number of speeches were made, but the only one of public importance was by Morrison, chairman of the committee of ways and means, on his tariff bill, which he said would not be pressed this session.

Mr. Pete McKinney, living on the road to Coos Bay, has in his possession, preserved in alcohol, a double headed garter snake. The two heads perfectly formed are entirely separate, of equal size, and are joined together at the neck. Before its death (it died a natural one) it had become thoroughly domesticated and lived about Mr. McKinney's house, a perfect pet. One cool morning it was found dead on the hearthstone, and Mr. McK. put it in alcohol to keep it thereafter as a natural curiosity.

The Independent says: "There are now eight different parties out prospecting various parts of Douglas county. Four of them are prospecting for coal and petroleum, and the others are seeking for placer and quartz mines. Petroleum has been found in two places, and were we at liberty to give the names of parties and locality, we could tell where coarse gold, some pieces as large as squash seeds, had been found in sufficient quantities to insure good paying mines."

THE SIOUX CAMPAIGN.

Gen. Crook Reported Defeated with Terrible Slaughter.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Specials received here are of similar tenor with that from St. Louis about Crook's battle; nothing official or confirmatory is received and the account is probably bogus. The St. Louis Globe Democrat has a special from Leavenworth which gives what seems an exaggerated account of Crook's battle with the Sioux on Goose creek. The dispatch says A. T. Fray, post trader at Camp Sheridan, arrived at Sydney, Neb., and reported the arrival at Camp Sheridan last Wednesday of Lame Deer, a friendly chief, who brought information that Gen. Crook has suffered a terrible defeat at the hands of the Sioux on Goose creek, but the date of the battle is not mentioned. The account states that Crook lost nearly 400 soldiers and was driven across the creek under a terrible fire from the Indians and that the fight was more of a slaughter than a battle. It is further stated that the Indians are greatly elated over the victory and intend after driving the miners from the Black Hills to clean out all the agencies in the northern country and all stations along the Pacific railroad. The dispatch is so worded that it cannot be stated whether this is an account of the old battle or one recently. This is therefore given for what it is worth.

The Herald has a special to the effect of a terrible slaughter to Crook's command by the Sioux, 400 killed. The Herald's editorial says: We think we may well doubt the story of the disaster to Crook's command which comes to us this morning by a roundabout way and from an uncertain source. Lame Deer, who reports the story, may be strong in his belief but it is too circumstantial to be trustworthy when it is considered how short was the time after the battle which he allowed himself to get to the point whence it was brought to Sydney. We are told so much about the disaster and its consequences that it is not easy to believe there was any disaster at all.

Canadian Sioux Asked to Join American Indians.

The World's Toronto special says: Dispatches have been received by the Dominion authorities at Ottawa to the effect that the Sioux Indians in the United States recently made overtures to the Sioux and Blackfeet tribes in the Canadian northwest territories for an offensive and defensive alliance against the white race generally. These overtures were rejected without parley by the Canadian tribes, whereupon the messengers from the American Sioux announced they were instructed by their council to ask the Indians of British North America to join their tribe against the United States. It is believed however the Canadian Indians will remain neutral, although many of them are of the Sioux who perpetrated the Minnesota massacre in 1862. The Crees, Sioux and Blackfeet in the Canadian northwest number 12,400, are well armed and supplied, and if they were to join the tribes now fighting in the United States nothing on this side of the line could prevent them. The Canadian force in the northwest consists of 300 mounted police at Fort Pelly, and less than 100 militia at Winnepeg.

Recruiting the Army.

WASHINGTON, July 29—175 recruits are to be forwarded to regiments in Dakota and Colorado, and 14 to Gen. Terry's command. Three hundred soldiers leave New York to-morrow for the Indian country. The Secretary of War has sent to the House a dispatch of Gen. Sheridan recommending an increase of the companies of the 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th and 7th Cavalry to 100 men as it was before two regiments on the Rio Grande, and submits an estimate for men required in addition to the 2,500 men authorized by law. The number required to fill regiments of cavalry on the frontier and in Texas to the maximum of 100 men for each company will be 2,500 and expenses $1,634,700. Gen. Sherman prefers regular enlistments to volunteers.

Indians Reported Willing to Treat for Peace.

CHEYENNE, July 29—Previous reports via the Missouri river agencies are in part confirmed by news received at Fort Laramie from Red Cloud Agency to-day. Runners arrived at that agency are said to have come from Crazy Horse's band and Minneconjous, and stating that chief, with a portion of his band, have left Sitting Bull's division, and are en route to the agency avowedly to treat for peace.

No Affection for their "Soldier Fathers."

The turning over the agencies at Red Cloud and Spotted Tail has not been without difficulty. While a majority of the Indians are disposed to submit gracefully thereto, quite a number express dissatisfaction at having soldier fathers placed over them. A council is being held at Red Cloud. Some dissatisfaction is felt by the Indians at the meagre supply of food, which consists entirely of corn, flour and beef. They insist on sugar, coffee and tobacco in fulfillment of treaty stipulation, and further attributing the departure from the agencies of those who have joined the hostiles to that fact, rather than a desire for war. Apprehension of inability to carry out the orders to disarm all these Indians before allowing them to return to the agency exists at Camps Sheridan and Robinson. Two companies of the 4th cavalry go to Sheridan, increasing the force to four companies, while at Camp Robinson there are only three companies exclusive of one of the 3d cavalry at Sidney crossing, not far distant.

The report made by John Marsh, forwarding a memorandum book belonging to L. Richardson, is contradicted by W. H. Hubbard, who arrived here this evening and had met Richardson and a coach load of passengers at Hat creek on the 24th inst.

PARIS, July 29.—The radical republican press to-day made a general attack on the heads of the Jesuit College, alleging they had fraudulently wronged students concerning subjects of examination at the polytechnique. Hence the libel suit which yesterday was decided in favor of Dupac, director of the college, and 55 students. The affair caused great excitement, and has been the subject of parliamentary inquiry.

London Stock Market.

The fortnightly settlement of the Stock Exchange was accomplished with only two moderately sized failures.

Liverpool Grain Market.

LIVERPOOL, July 28.—A leading grain circular says the supplies of English wheat the past week have been rather larger. The tendency of prices continue in favor of buyers, who have restricted their purchases to supply immediate requirements. Prices generally have been somewhat lower than last week. Cargoes on the coast now number 10, reduced principally by withdrawals. Trade remains very dull in this and neighboring markets. There has been a more active demand which has sprung up since Tuesday, the weather having become unsettled with heavy rain and low temperature, and a fair business has been transacted in wheat at better prices. Maize has also been held for full rates. The improved tone was still more apparent in to-day's market, millers generally being rather short of stock and purchased largely. Spring advanced 3d per cental for both red and white. Flour is dull and unchanged. Corn is in good demand at an advance of sixpence per quarter.

The Salem Mercury of last Friday says: Rumor is current on our streets to-day that a well known citizen had eloped with his sister-in-law, a certain dashing grass widow, who has recently been connected with a notorious mail robbery case. He leaves behind a wife and three children in rather destitute circumstances. It is said that the guilty pair were accompanied in their flight by another citizen whose matrimonial relations have not been very pleasant and agreeable of late, and the irate spouse on learning of his escapade left this morning in hot pursuit. If she catches him we doubt not but his already scanty capillary adornment will be further reduced in proportions.

THE WHISKY TRIALS.

INTERESTING EXPOSE OF THE WHISKY RING—EXPLANATION OF THE SYLPH TELEGRAM AND THE PRESIDENT'S ORDER—"LET NO GUILTY MAN ESCAPE"—CHARACTERISTIC LETTER FROM BRISTOW—WHY HENDERSON WAS DISMISSED—HISTORY OF THE RESIGNATIONS OF BRISTOW AND WILSON—GRANT BELIEVED BABCOCK INNOCENT—BUT CAME DOWN WHEN HIS BLACK FRIDAY TRANSACTIONS WERE SHOWN UP.

Examination of Bluford Wilson.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Before the committee on whisky trials to-day the examination of Wilson was continued. In connection with the statement in his previous testimony of Gen. Porter's explanations of the term "sylph," Wilson having refreshed his memory by reference to a letter from a friend in New York, testified to the annoyance which it was said the woman "sylph" gave the President by her efforts to blackmail him in St. Louis.

By Caulfield, chairman of the sub-committee—You said in your examination yesterday that from the time of the discovery of the "sylph" dispatch implicating Gen. Babcock in the whisky frauds or tending so to implicate him, the President did not show the same sympathy with the Secretary of the Treasury or yourself that he had previously shown. Please state any act or acts of the President from that time forward, indicating to you that he was not in sympathy with these whisky prosecutions.

Answer—Before I proceed to answer that question I wish to make an addition to my testimony of yesterday in reference to the contents of the Barnard letter on which the President made the well known indorsement, "Let no guilty man escape if it can be avoided." Either in the body of that letter or in an accompanying document there was a statement from E. S. Foster of St. Louis to the effect that the President was himself charged with being a party to an unlawful combination in that city to defraud the government of its revenues. I want that fact to be noted because I have no doubt the President made his endorsement as much with reference to the allegations that Babcock was a party, and that Jim Casey, the President's brother-in-law, was openly asserting that the Secretary of the Treasury would not hold his office 30 days. Another point was asked yesterday, whether the President consented willingly to the publication of the indorsement of the Barnard letter which has been often referred to. In reference to a letter addressed to me by Gen. Bristow, under date of Aug. 7th, written in the Treasury Department, I find the Secretary of the Treasury had addressed an official communication to the President asking him for permission to publish that endorsement, and that at that date, Aug. 7th, he had received no reply. For the purpose of fixing the date when the "sylph" telegram was discovered, I refer to the letter of Gen. Bristow to me written from New York, Aug. 9, 1875, and which I have no objection to make a part of the record. It is as follows:

NEW YORK, August 9, 1875.

My Dear Wilson—Your letter of yesterday with enclosure is received. The time is very near at hand when I must make a square issue with the thieves and scoundrels combined to destroy me. I must be supported cordially and earnestly or I must and will break. I fear complications are such the former can't be done and the latter must. You can't be too careful about talking to anybody. I have heard that the matter about the "sylph" dispatch, and our having seen it in connection with Pierrepont's, is fully known to P. and B. (meaning Porter and Babcock) and they are greatly disturbed and look as if afraid to talk with anybody about it. Of course this is not meant for censure, but caution. I suppose I made up my mind to bear the abuse of the ring papers. Hard as it is to do they are fighting to keep their friends out of prison, and to save themselves from exposure, and of course will seek to [illegible] anybody who stands in their way. Well as for [illegible], I can't turn back, nor will I stop to parley with them. I have no ambition to serve, and no purpose to accomplish but the enforcement of the laws and honest collection of the revenue. I will compromise on nothing short of this, but on this issue am ready to be sacrificed any day. I asked Webster to write the President to have his views about the Chicago custom house and the whisky ring. He has great confidence in Webster, and it is going to require, at most, the watchfulness of his real friends to prevent his being misled by men who profess friendship for him, but who are acting treacherously. Tell Webster to write strongly and give him the plain truth and to mark his letters confidential.

B. H. B.

To the question of the Chairman I may say that the Secretary of the Treasury and myself, having been ordered by the President to see that no guilty man should escape, if it could be avoided, on consultation mutually concluded that the President could not go back on that injunction without stultifying himself and placing his officers in a false position, and we therefore resolved to leave the whole matter of Gen. Babcock's alleged connection with the whisky ring at St. Louis to be dealt with by the officers there. Until about the 1st of December, and until it was known absolutely that Gen. Babcock had been indicted, the relations of Bristow and myself with the President were passable; but as soon as it was seen that Babcock was to be indicted, the idea of a military court of inquiry was brought to the front, to my knowledge, by General Babcock and his friends. The idea of a military court was broached before the indictment was found against Babcock, and the fact that the President of the United States took the ground that a military court should supersede proceedings before the civil tribunal at St. Louis was taken by myself and by the Secretary to be a marked indication of his purpose to delay proceedings in that city. On the 3d or 4th of December I wrote a letter to Gen. Henderson, advising him fully of my views and indicating to him the settled views of the Secretary of the Treasury to see by all honorable means that the proceedings before the civil tribunal should not be postponed, delayed, or embarrassed, if he could prevent it, by any proceedings to be instituted or had before the military tribunal. Of that letter I have not a copy, but Gen. Henderson, I believe, has the original. In the next place, it is a fact that I heard nothing from the President of the charge that in his judgment, Henderson's remarks contained any reflection whatever on the President. It also called attention to the fact that Eaton, Dyer and Henderson had all in writing informed me that no such purpose existed on Henderson's part, and that on the contrary it appeared from the official records in my possession at that time, and now in the Treasury Department, that Gen. Henderson went out of his way in an argument in that case to state that in his judgment, the President of the United States was altogether above reproach, so far as he knew, and to pay the President a compliment. Therefore I said to the Secretary of the Treasury that I accepted the judgment of Gen. Henderson's colleagues and of the court as conclusive on that question, and that in my judgment the President of the United States ought to rise above personal considerations, for the public interest required Gen. Henderson's assistance in prosecution. The dismissal of Henderson was in my judgment a fatal blow to the prospect of the successful prosecution of the Babcock case.

Q.—Have you preserved the letter to which I have referred? A.—It is now on the files of the treasury department, and I will make it exhibit before I get through. By reference to my private letter book, I find under date of the 4th the following letter, written by me:

Dear Sir: I wrote Gen. Henderson a confidential letter last night, giving the situation of affairs at this end. In the Sylph matter we don't know here what you are doing, but presume, of course, you are doing your duty.

That is the letter in which I have made reference to the controversy in regard to the military and civil tribunal. Another ground was the President's refusal to remove Gasper D. Wood, U. S. district attorney at Chicago, until he was confronted by the evidence on the 3d of December, which showed that Ward was a partner in the Powell distillery, and had improper relations with Jacob Rehm, which statement was made to the President by Hon. Burton C. Cooke, of Chicago. On that point I said to Secretary Bristow, December 3d:

Dear General—Mr. Cooke was just in to see me with some startling news. He saw the President after he met you, and was assured by the President that he would remove Ward promptly, and to that end he would ask Webster who should be his successor. But what is especially noteworthy was a letter to Cooke from a reliable friend in Chicago, attributing Logan's illness to sheer fright. He charged that he is in it, that the very air here was full of rumor about Ward's connection with the ring, his relations with distiller Powell, &c., &c. The enclosed from Brooks may interest you. The Lord give you wisdom.

Faithfully, WILSON.

That note I sent to Gen. Bristow in the Cabinet; the ejaculation at the end of it was because I knew the proposal to have a military court of enquiry was under consideration.

The following is the letter to me from Gen. Webster under date of 26th December, 1875:

CHICAGO, Dec 26.

My Dear Sir: Do you not begin to rub your eyes and inquire whether you are awake, whether we are any of us awake and not all in some bad dream? Was there ever such scandalous lying and pleading? Is it not the most remarkable sight of a century? Is there any key to it, all except that the banded corruptionists of all classes and kinds are desperate and are summoning all their forces, placing their reliance on an unparalleled audacity of vituperation and cunningly contrived combination. Is it possible that Babcock has lent any countenance to the proposition for an attack on Bristow? Will he confess his own infamy and try to befoul the Secretary of the Treasury with him? What other explanation is there for the Inter-Ocean's attack? I suspect that the ring have got entire control of the Inter-Ocean. They are desperate and will furnish all necessary means to get an English organ as they have a German one in the Zeitung. What are we coming to when such things can even be attempted in open day? [illegible] took my pen to ask you a question. I have been just told that the man Kissel is there in Washington and had the impudence to try to blackmail both the Secretary of War and Secretary of the Treasury. Is that so? I can hardly believe it, that I see that he has lived so long in the atmosphere peculiar to the political whisky ring of the age, that perhaps he has no conception of honesty left and no idea of decency or incorruptibility in any one. Yesterday I wanted Dexter and Ayer to have no further conference with him, to have it only with Sweet. A strange [illegible]. Please let me know whether it is such a graceless scamp as to have really blackmailed the secretaries. I hope this outburst of malice in the I. O. will ever show its mark, and instead of making a breach between the President and Bristow have the opposite effect and unite them more firmly in the fight against corruption. It looks as if the time is coming when all good men of all parties must band together against the rascals, as the only way in which the country can be saved. But we shall soon see. Write me. For words of trust and soberness, truly yours,

J. D. WEBSTER.

While in St. Louis on December 2d I wrote the President of the United States the following letter:

My Dear President—Pardon me for troubling you to read the enclosed clipping from yesterday morning's Chicago Tribune. I might, under ordinary circumstances, be quite content to let the matter rest where Ward's explanation has left it, and to permit that gentleman and Hon. C. B. Farwell to settle their own difficulties in their own way, however the many mistakes in relation to myself that have reached you, and in fact I didn't care to go into the matter with a reporter. I wish to say to you that the whole story of Mr. Farwell as it relates to me is unqualifiedly false. Even as a joke, a poor one at best, it is wholly without foundation or warrant in any word or act of mine in reference to any case inside or out of the whisky ring suits. If it comes in your way I will be obliged if you will show this to Mr. Farwell. If he has been at you with his complaint against me, I will take it as a favor if you will call his attention to my answer. The situation here and at Chicago seems to be satisfactory. I return to Washington to-night.

With great respect, your friend

BLUFORD WILSON.

I wrote that letter in reply to a charge which Farwell caused to be telegraphed to the Chicago Tribune, that I had, on the occasion of a certain visit to Chicago, said to J. D. Ward, while he was district attorney, that he must indict Farwell and Logan, and when Ward asked me for evidence, I said to him, 'Damn the evidence; indict them first and find the evidence afterwards.' I will state that the Chicago Tribune's article referred to stated that the telegram was submitted to Ward upon Farwell's statement that Ward would confirm it, and upon Ward's confirming and corroborating it, it was published. Upon its being submitted to Ward, however, he repudiated it in toto, and denied ever having had any conference or conversation with me, upon which any such interpretation could be placed. To the reporter of the Tribune, who came to me for a denial, I simply said I have none to make to so utterly absurd a charge. I make this statement because I see that the reporters of the New York Graphic and correspondent of the Inter-Ocean in this city have, in substance, repeated this charge in a new shape yesterday to the Graphic, and, I presume, also to the Inter-Ocean. This was my answer then made to the chief magistrate of the land, and it is my answer to the charge to-day.

In further response to questions of the committee: Both the Secretary and myself were led to entertain grave apprehension as to what the issue would be in the Babcock matter, for the reason that I learned from the President and from C. S. Bell himself that the President had requested him to go to St. Louis, and I learned from the President, from C. S. Bell and from the Attorney General that it was in contemplation to employ Bell to go to St. Louis, and to report, not to Dyer but directly to the Attorney General, and that the reason for his intention was that the President understood Dyer and Henderson intended to implicate him in the frauds if possible.

On Dec. 18, 1875, I wrote Dyer as follows: "And now a word of caution. You have made a mistake in trusting Bell. He has been pretending to know that you have been endeavoring to implicate the President, and it is possible that he may return to St. Louis. If he does, put your best man on at once and you will soon see where he trains. If he calls upon you, don't let on that you suspect, but don't trust him, and have him watched. Mind what I say; I know what I am writing about, and you must burn this on your honor."

I wish to state further that I made such representations to the Attorney General and to the President when I learned that it was in contemplation to send this man to St. Louis and induced them to reconsider their proposed action, and he was not employed. It is a fact that the President was intensely in earnest in the Babcock matter in opposition to the views of the Secretary and myself. On the 20th of December he sent for me and confronted me with a charge that it was reported to him that I was trying to have his brother (Orville Grant) and his son (Col. Fred Grant) indicted for complicity in the frauds, and in the course of the conversation he again asserted to me his earnest belief in Babcock's innocence and his [illegible] of the great outrage that had been perpetrated on him by Henderson and Dyer in refusing to send to the military court at Chicago the original evidence contained in the evidence of the civil tribunal at St. Louis. As illustrating the personal attitude of the President to myself, I may mention that Col. Grant told the reporter of the New York Herald in December that Babcock's indictment was the result of a conspiracy between prominent Treasury officials, myself and Carl Schurz.

Coming down to the circular letter, the solicitor said Luckey addressed him a note on behalf of the President, whom he of late only visited on invitation, asking his presence at the White House. It transpired at this interview that the President was dissatisfied with Bristow and himself concerning the whisky prosecutions in Milwaukee, Chicago and St. Louis, especially that persons were allowed immunity by pleading guilty. He instanced Raddis, of Milwaukee, and Everest, of St. Louis. The solicitor denied that immunity had been promised the latter, though he had promised to testify that he saw Joyce mail Babcock two letters containing $50,000 each. The President asked about the whereabouts of Everest, and said to me: "Major, I said 'Let no guilty man escape.' I meant it; not that nine men should escape and one be convicted." I said to him, "Pardon me, Mr. President; we are trying to break up the unlawful conspiracies and combinations which we all know exist, and if possible to reach those who have inspired and organized them, and I know of no other way of doing so and obtaining proof of the conspiracy than by going inside the ranks of the conspirators, and I give to you as my judgment that the policy which has been adopted by the local counsel upon their independent judgment, and not under instructions of either counsel or myself, will result in accomplishing this purpose; none other will." Secretary Chandler sat just back at the further end of the Cabinet room, and I said to the President: "Mr. President, I notice the presence of a member of the Cabinet. If you give me time to go into the matter, I think I could satisfy you that you are laboring under a misapprehension." "Oh," said he, "it is not worth while. I simply wanted to call your attention to the fact that, in my judgment, there is too much of this going on." I said to him, "That being so, I have nothing to do, Mr. President, but to bid you good morning;" and I did so.

Wilson further testified that he went to Bristow and talked the matter over with him, [illegible] him to accompany him with the documents to the President and to disabuse his mind of the [illegible] he had, which he believed had been given him by Supervisor Fulton. They went and [illegible] the President, who expressed himself fully satisfied, and a friendly conversation [illegible], which Everest's testimony was again mentioned. That evening the solicitor wrote Bristow:

Dear General—I called to bid you bon voyage and to say that within less than one hour after our return from the White House, Babcock came in, a little white and a good deal nervous, and asked me if I had any news. I replied that I had none, except what I had given the President, to which he said, 'Yes; it is that about which I desire to ask you. What does Everest claim about the [illegible],' etc., showing that his excellency had conveyed at once to Babcock every item of evidence he got from us. Babcock stayed quite a while, had a very prompt and emphatic denial to every story and a theory to fit it. He asked me on going away to tell him of everything new that turned up. This I positively refused, but I added, 'I could not deny when the President asked.' He laughed and said that would do just as well, and we see that it does. The point of all this is that the President [illegible] me in Babcock's interest. What am I to do again? I have no objection on general principles to give Babcock a fair show if the testimony is really false, but how if it should turn out to be true? and what more right has he now than any other accused party to hear the details of the case against him?

About the 29th of January, the Attorney-General called on witness about Babcock, and generally he said one request of the President had troubled him a good deal, namely, that of writing circular letters cautioning the U. S. district attorney against taking accomplices' testimony. The President was very earnest, though the Attorney General said he told him he saw no other way of getting at the bottom. Finally he wrote a letter known as the first circular letter. This, the Attorney General said, didn't please the President, who wanted an explicit statement that no evidence of accomplices should be received in evidence. The Attorney General said this would be like saying you must not plead guilty, for then you make your own condemnation certain. He feared the letter would be misunderstood, but the President said he hoped not. That was on the 29th of January. On the 2d or 3d of February witness read in the Chicago Times the letter. Then the solicitor went to see Bristow, and said it was clearly evident that he meant to bring about a conflict and a change of policy, and I told the Secretary that he must take immediate steps to have an understanding with the Attorney General and President. He agreed with me on the steps that he took for he himself and the Attorney General had an interview which took place the day after. The Chicago Times correspondent next day acknowledged that he got the letter from Storrs, Babcock's counsel. On the 10th of February the Secretary of the Treasury resolved there was nothing left him but to leave the Cabinet owing to the almost total breaking off of personal relations with the President, and it was learned from many sources that the President had determined to dismiss the Secretary and solicitor.

After the Babcock trial the solicitor introduced the letter written from Chicago by Webster giving assertions of Logan and others to the effect that the President intended to take such action immediately. February 10th the solicitor wrote the President a letter relative to an article in the Inter-Ocean which charged him with suborning perjury, conspiring against the President and his relatives, and pursuing Logan and Farwell similarly. He made a general denial of these charges and expressed the hope that if any of the parties alluded to were guilty they would be punished. He inclosed the letter by himself to Col. Matthews of Chicago, and asked the President before believing any statements reflecting on him to hear him. The letter mentions the visit of Bell and his extraordinary story.

The Solicitor and Secretary of the Treasury both prepared their resignations to be delivered the day after the close of the Babcock trial.

Mr. Wilson introduced all the letters to which he refers in his testimony, which tended to [illegible] the history [illegible] in the [illegible] to Gen. Webster about this time the solicitor says he has every confidence in the [illegible] of the [illegible] to do right, and is neither anxious nor [illegible] as to the President's future action about himself. On the 24th of February Babcock was acquitted. On Sunday night, the 27th, [illegible] mitted to the President showing that O. E. Babcock, Private Secretary of the President, had been engaged in the Black Friday gold [illegible]. He and others had lost [illegible] and that transaction was covered by a trust deed of property for Jay Cooke & Co. This was subsequently verified by competent evidence. As a result, neither the Secretary nor Solicitor was dismissed, and the President [illegible] with the Secretary in a highly creditable [illegible]. This occurred because the [illegible]. I can then first was made aware that Gen. Babcock had [illegible] him in one case and might have done so in another. Soon after the President sent for the solicitor and had a friendly [illegible] ... [illegible] had been charged that Wilson [illegible] rendezvous for [illegible] got news hostile to the President, and he [illegible] been charged with writing an [illegible] for [illegible] York [illegible] March 7th [illegible] he being then sick, and said the President [illegible] the day [illegible], said to him [illegible] told him Wilson was conti[illegible] acts. Bristow said to the President that he had never heard [illegible] to talk with the Solicitor. [illegible] a scathing de[illegible] of [illegible] who [illegible] such [illegible] mittee from a dispatch, which he explained was sent by a dismissed detective who had a [illegible] against him:

"Louis de Lome, St. Louis: Can you produce evidence against Wilson for [illegible]? J. F. PORTER."

The scheme was to [illegible] that [illegible] gave Washburn, chief of the [illegible] $5,000 to make a case [illegible] man who swore he was in [illegible] opened Joyce's letter, and it [illegible].

Wilson, in response to a [illegible] the committee, said [illegible] between the President, [illegible] relation to California [illegible] from agents sent this [illegible] inefficient and these facts [illegible] President by [illegible]. After this there was no further [illegible] the removal of the war on [illegible].

Cochrane—If [illegible] jury acquitted Babcock that [illegible] between the President, [illegible] were re-established.

Wilson—I resigned the 20th of June, having accepted advantageous offers for professional employment in my own State, and as an [illegible] part of my resignation it was to relieve the President from any further embarrassment in his administration. Secretary Bristow resigned on the 21st. I state frankly we had decided early in June or late in May to resign just as soon as we could do so without having our motives questioned. It was thought best both by the President and Secretary that the resignation should not take place until after the Cincinnati convention. I [illegible] received a reply to my letter of resignation from the President. I do not know that it has been [illegible]. The conversation between the President and myself was a brief one. The President received me coldly. I said to him "I have called to inform you that I have received such offers for professional business as to induce me to resign the office of Solicitor of the Treasury. I do this by advice of friends, and also for the reason that I wish to put an end to the embarrassment and annoyance to which you are subject on my account." The President said "very well." He expressed the opinion that after the Cincinnati convention we would have a season of quiet. I replied "I trust that during the remainder of your administration you will have peace," and with the assurances of my respectful and kindly consideration I took my hat and left.

In reply to a question as to the names of the parties who had been operating against him, Wilson gave the names of Charles Farwell, Senator John A. Logan, [illegible] a relative [illegible] perhaps Sargent, of California, together with Wm. R. Moore and one Stewart, a dismissed [illegible] agent.

Plaisted, of Connecticut—Did you attribute the difference between you and the President in any degree to a want of sympathy on the President's part to prosecute the whisky [illegible]?

Wilson—I am inclined to that that he [illegible] Babcock innocent, and so believing he [illegible] not sympathize with the [illegible] or with the Secretary and me. [illegible] in this part we [illegible] with reference to the Babcock case. My own [illegible] is that whatever differences [illegible] the Secretary and myself on the one side, and the President on the other, were due on the President's part to a misconception of the motives and [illegible] which actuated the Secretary and myself; to misinformation as to facts; to willful and [illegible] of the facts to the President, by [illegible] we were endeavoring to bring to [illegible] and their friends, for the purpose of [illegible] embarrassment to the [illegible] to drive them out.

Cochrane—If the [illegible] faith in this [illegible] how do you [illegible] his action with reference to the [illegible] you informed him that Gen. [illegible] explanation of that [illegible] him, and which was [illegible] tion of Gen. [illegible] himself [illegible]?

Wilson—I have [illegible] the facts as they are within [illegible] the [illegible] investigation, as they are in the [illegible] the facts [illegible] with [illegible] at all. But [illegible] the Wilson [illegible] anxiety to [illegible] Cape May, [illegible] the condition of his [illegible] adjourned the examination.

Grant [illegible] Not [illegible].

NEW YORK, July 29.—A [illegible] to the Post says Grant [illegible] that if he was summoned he would go before the [illegible] whisky committee and tell [illegible] does not know about Cabinet [illegible] privilege [illegible].

CHICAGO, July 29.—[illegible] Washington [illegible] says the [illegible] their [illegible] is the talk of the day, and [illegible] will not [illegible] says that he has [illegible] will [illegible] approval of [illegible] in making the [illegible] removed from the [illegible] him in trying to [illegible] not [illegible] Babcock [illegible] involved.

Plaisted, [illegible] of the [illegible] examining committee [illegible] the right [illegible] nation to which he will [illegible] and will show that [illegible] Grant was entirely in [illegible] with the [illegible] prosecutions. REFORM—HAYES vs TILDEN

It would not be a bad thing to have a President who would heartily support the prosecution of persons who conspire to defraud the government. In fact it is every way commendable for the Executive, either of a national or State government to pursue such a course as will cause him to be regarded as the enemy of all sorts of offenders against the laws of the country he rules. But that is not the [illegible] most needed to-day in this Republic. The President must be something beyond a mere general prosecuting attorney in order to effect a reformation of the civil service. He can not keep track of all the criminals unless he be personally cognizant of the character and fitness of all whom he appoints to office. Unless his conduct in this respect is regulated by some general rule and that rule something very different from the simple recommendation of Senators and Congressmen, his best efforts to secure a pure service must prove futile. Here is where the position of Hayes differs radically from that of Tilden. Hayes lays down a principle of action for the regulation of appointments to office which will drive scoundrels out as fast as they can be discovered, and keep honest and capable officers in despite the efforts of Congressional politicians, while Tilden points to his prosecution of one class of thieves and plunderers in New York where there are many other classes unpunished as an illustration of his idea of reform and an earnest of the work he will accomplish in case of his election to the Presidency. Hayes' views are the views of a statesman who has fathomed the depths of the question on which more than upon any other the future of the nation hangs. Tilden's are the views of one who imagines a spasmodic attack on an individual here and a combination there, will cleanse the politics of the country. Let it be assumed that Tilden would honestly and earnestly endeavor to keep the civil service pure by his narrow method, he could not be successful. Possibly he might improve it somewhat. Certainly the prosecution of criminals, which he seems to consider synonymous with administrative reform is a very necessary thing. But the President who undertakes to maintain a pure administration of the vast concerns of this government simply by energetically kicking out delinquents with his feet, while he is using his hands with equal energy in filling their places with others whose qualifications—party services—have prepared them for just such a career as that of their predecessors, is doomed to failure. It is the system that is at fault. It is the system that needs reforming. Tilden may be a good, even a great, prosecuting attorney, but that falls as far short of the true idea of administrative reform as the mere politician falls below the statesman.

BLUFORD WILSON'S TESTIMONY

When they broke into Bluford Wilson's letter box the other day, they evidently found more than they were searching for. The veil is rent and many of the facts of the Babcock case not heretofore published stand before the public in all their naked ugliness. The inside history of that affair, as detailed by the person who, after Secretary Bristow, had better knowledge of it than any other man except those in the whisky ring at Washington, cuts all the ground far under the President, and leaves him no defense except that his friendship so blinded him that he could not comprehend the truth when it was presented to him. The explanation of Bristow's retirement from the cabinet is also given in this testimony. Bristow in the course of his war against the whisky thieves, found it necessary to attack Babcock, and from that moment the relations between him and the President became cold, formal and reserved, and his presence an annoyance to the latter. The whisky prosecutions generally were crippled by a circular dictated by the President, in the interest of Babcock and his pals, and issued against the protest of Attorney General Pierrepont, and the Babcock case in particular was rendered fruitless by the conduct of the chief magistrate of the nation in securing the plans of the prosecution by virtue of his rank as the head of all departments, and then communicating them to the accused. Intimations and hints of this have been made before, but the facts are now out, and under such conditions that, unless we greatly mistake, the President will never venture to contradict them. But while the evidence proves very reprehensible conduct upon the President, it fails to connect him personally with the operations of the whisky thieves, and, we think, justifies Mr Wilson's opinion, that the secret of the President's opposition to the prosecutions was his faith in the personal integrity of Gen Babcock.

THE LATEST OUTRAGE

The commissioners of the District of Columbia have subjected themselves to severe criticism. The Washington Chronicle of the 27th instant contains the complaint. It says

> The appointment by the district commissioners of the assessors provided by the recent act of Congress in the bill relating to taxation in this district has occasioned as much surprise as their recent appointment of Mr. Dodge as treasurer of the District. Certainly [illegible] and if report speaks correctly, two of the gentlemen appointed are out and out Democrats. These gentlemen are clever men and gentlemen, but they are not in consonance in political opinions with the party which the commissioners are supposed to represent. If the commissioners are appointing nice men to [illegible] without regard to political [illegible] the selections are passable but if they desire to place none but Republicans on [illegible] that they have been woefully [illegible] fully negligent in adhering to the wishes of the dominant political party of the country in the District.

A set of commissioners who have no higher appreciation of the obligations of official position than to appoint clever men and good citizens [illegible] nice men and all that sort of thing to the important office of assessor, without regard to political proclivities, when there are so many [illegible] waiting who possess none of these disqualifications and who are efficient workers in the party ought to be decapitated without benefit of clergy. It is enough to overcome the patience of Job and destroy all confidence in the capacity of a people for self government to see such gross disregard of the interests of the party and that too with no excuse only that the good of the public service may be promoted. Out upon the doughfaced Republican commissioners who have imperiled this great commonwealth by appointing two Democrats as assessors of the District of Columbia.

The Illinois State Journal one of the oldest ablest and straightest Republican papers in the West speaking of the removal of Postmaster General Jewell and Commissioner Pratt says that while the Democrats generally exult over it as evidence of dissension among the Republicans among thoughtful Republicans the sentiment is one of more or less pronounced disapprobation. After remarking that Pratt's removal might have been expected on account of the unfriendly feelings that had grown up between him and the President the Journal proceeds:

As to Postmaster General Jewell the situation was different. He was regarded by the country as having brought honesty and business capacity to the discharge of the duties of his office and there was no known reason for a change in his department. His resignation therefore has taken the country by surprise. The intimation following on the heels of the appointment of Judge Tyner of Indiana second assistant postmaster general to the vacancy at the head of the department that it is for the purpose of aiding the Republican cause in Indiana is scarcely consistent with the contemporaneous removal of a much more prominent and widely known man from Indiana in the person of Commissioner Pratt.

The manner of the act would seem to sustain the reports widely circulated that the President has manifested a disposition to quarrel with his constitutional advisers of late and has determined to give the country an exhibition of personal government.

The telegraph reports that Tilden and Hendricks have had another meeting at Saratoga. Tilden arrived there—in state it may be assumed—and soon afterwards was called upon at his hotel by Hendricks. Then the two with Lieutenant Governor Dorsheimer—the latter taken along probably to see that no extreme measures were resorted to by either—went out riding and after about four hours in the forests together came back swearing there had never been any misunderstanding between them. If the Democrats are not happy now they are a race of incorrigible pessimists.

CITY.

SMITH BROS' [illegible] FOUNDRY BURNED.—Last Saturday evening [illegible] volumes of smoke were seen to issue [illegible] the foundry and machine shop of Smith [illegible] situated on the west side of First street, between Salmon and Main, and a moment later flames were plainly visible through the crevices and windows of the building. Box No. 1 gave the general alarm at 10 minutes to [illegible] o'clock, which was quickly followed by the bells of the several fire companies, and soon the whole department was hurrying to the scene. Meantime the fire had advanced with great rapidity and before the engines reached the place the whole interior of the building was wrapped in flames. An unsuccessful attempt was made to gain admission to the [illegible] in order to save the patterns, but the [illegible] smoke and intense heat drove [illegible] back. The heat was very great and it required the utmost efforts of the department to prevent the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings. Notwithstanding every effort possible was put forth, the building was almost totally destroyed, [illegible] portion of the [illegible] left standing, [illegible] the flames in their fiery course could be checked and subdued. In the front end of the building, where the machine shop was [illegible], the contest was the hottest between the [illegible] and the companies, as every effort was put forth to save the machinery, which was considered to be of more value than anything else about the establishment. Efforts in this direction were crowned with [illegible] success for several of the heaviest and most valuable pieces of machinery—including [illegible] and the engine—escaped without much damage. A number of tools were also [illegible]. Not a single pattern was saved, [illegible] the casting room was almost entirely destroyed. The total loss will [illegible] fall short of $20,000. The building and what was in it was insured for $10,000. [illegible] though it the [illegible] originated in the casting room. Some castings were made Saturday afternoon and there was no doubt combustion [illegible] from the cupola or core oven. Had it not been for the fact that a blast is run almost every day the fire would have been discovered much sooner and probably the whole building saved. Smoke in large quantities was seen rising from the building for some time before the alarm was struck, but all supposed it came from the casting room. So the presence of the destroyer was not discovered until it had obtained such great headway that it could not be subdued without heavy loss. Work closed at [illegible] o'clock Saturday evening [illegible] the [illegible] man had only left the foundry about [illegible] minutes before the alarm was sounded. Smith Bros., who owned the foundry, had several large contracts this season to furnish iron frontings for brick buildings now in process of construction in the city. Fortunately, however, they had completed nearly all of the heaviest contracts. These plucky [illegible] and thoroughly enterprising gentlemen [illegible] all swept away during the great fire [illegible] 1873. Not yielding to dire mis[illegible] the [illegible] soon after and were [illegible] in operation when the destroyer [illegible] them. We understand [illegible] Smith Bros. intend to rebuild and start again. Such perseverance under disheartening circumstances certainly merits great success.

CENTENNIAL WEDDING.—In the Latrobe Pa [illegible] of J[illegible] we find the following: The grandest social affair of the season and the most brilliant wedding known in this vicinity transpired here on Wednesday [illegible] in [illegible] of two of the most prominent members of society. The contracting parties were [illegible] Scott, Esq., a leading journalist of Oregon, and Miss Maggie N. Mechesney, daughter [illegible] B. Mechesney, Esq. After the marriage ceremony, in the Episcopal form by Rev. [illegible] Mechesney of Michigan, brother of the [illegible] the bridal party and guests assembled in the dining room where was spread an elegant [illegible] breakfast in the best style. The presents were numerous and costly. Among the guests present were Mr and Mrs Thos. [illegible]lintock of Pittsburgh, Mr and Mrs Mil[illegible] of Cincinnati, Mrs James Paul of [illegible], Dr and Mrs R. Mechesney and [illegible] and Mrs Gibson of Elderton Pa, [illegible] Mrs [illegible] Mechesney of South Haven, [illegible] Mr Will and Miss Sue Smith of [illegible] Pa, Miss Jennie Watt of Florence [illegible] and Mrs Osborne of Latrobe, Mr and [illegible] Sargent of Philadelphia, Dr and Mrs A. [illegible] Mechesney of Chicago and many others. The bride and groom left for the East intending to return to Oregon after a few weeks.

NEHALEM VALLEY AND VICINITY.—A gentleman writing from Columbia City under date of the 28th writes as follows concerning a party of explorers who left that place a short time since to visit Nehalem valley: Eleven men started from here July 16 [illegible] with the intention of locating claims in Nehalem valley, or between here and there providing the land was suitable. They only went ten miles to the head waters of Milton creek and to [illegible] where they thought the [illegible] was as good as in the Nehalem [illegible] and were willing to locate claims [illegible] as a good road could be made from [illegible] to the Columbia river without any difficulty. Some of the party returned to [illegible] and to bring their families to the valley immediately. The liberal portion of this community have appropriated a sufficient amount of money to cut a road to Corncoes and Claskanie valleys and will commence the work on [illegible]day next from this place, taking a wagon and teams directly through with them. We hope to report successful progress very soon and the completion of a good wagon road through to Nehalem valley.

MEMORIAL TO HENRY RODNEY MORRIS.—It is proposed [illegible] the Church [illegible] to raise a fund of $1,500 for the purpose of endowing a bed in the Orphanage connected with the Good Samaritan Hospital. The fund will be called "The Rodney Morris Memorial Fund." In this way an object very dear to the bishop's heart can be aided, while at the same time the [illegible] of his brave son may be perpetuated. [illegible] have been sent to the Eastern papers [illegible] help. While we shall be glad to receive contributions, however small, from any one in the East who wishes to give, we think it quite possible to raise the whole sum [illegible] for supporting one orphan here at [illegible]. About $500 have already been secured. [illegible] offerings sent to the editor of the Church will be gladly received and acknowledged [illegible] our columns. Direct letters to the Rev. G. F. Plummer, Portland, Oregon.

[illegible] COMING.—The John L. Stephens sailed from San Francisco Saturday with the following passengers: W. K. Leveridge, [illegible] Shaw, H. Kittrow, Dr S. Parker, Mrs [illegible] D. Hall, [illegible], Master [illegible], G. P. Holman and wife, Geo. West and family, M[illegible], J. L. D. Winkle, F. [illegible] Miss [illegible] Beck, Mrs [illegible] Harvey and children, J. S. Holladay, V. H. [illegible] and wife, F. L. Haller, [illegible] Skidmore, [illegible], J. Dickinson, A. [illegible] and family, J. W. Crawford and family, P. Gordon and wife, W. [illegible] Moore, H. TO SUPPORT THE VEIL.—Last Friday in the chapel of St. Mary's Convent, Rev. Father Bronsgeest, of Sublimity, [illegible] officiating, assisted by Rev. Fathers Fierens, DeLorme and Thibeau, received as novices [illegible] Miss Maggie Eldridge, of St. Louis, Marion county, Miss Annie Connor, of St. Paul, and Miss Alicia Dunn, of Salem, received the white veil, the former taking the name of Sister Mary Matthew, and the latter Sister Mary [illegible]. Sister Mary [illegible] took the vows of the order and was received as a full sister. [illegible] The attendant ceremonies were impressive and were witnessed by a large number of persons.

AMUSEMENTS

CIRCUS.—The Italian Circus will give a farewell performance in this city Wednesday evening of the present week. This will be the last performance given by the [illegible] in Portland as they will start [illegible] overland for California.

[illegible] CONCERT.—New Market [illegible] was completely filled Saturday at the grand instrumental concert given by the 1st [illegible] Band. An excellent programme was rendered, which afforded the appreciative audience great satisfaction. Under the experienced leadership of Prof. Hub[illegible] the [illegible] were rendered with [illegible] and effect. [illegible] time. PROF. BALDWIN.—This evening Prof. S. S. Baldwin will [illegible] at New Market [illegible] extraordinary [illegible] Spiritualism. Prof. Baldwin has performed with marked success in all the large cities of the East and recently at San Francisco. He comes bearing with him the highest encomiums of the press. All who have witnessed his performances attest to his marvelous and [illegible] which are beyond human agency and which approximate to the mysterious realm of Spiritualism. So far as we can learn the professor in no instance has failed to perform any of the tricks which he advertises to do. He claims to be able to expose certain things commonly attributed to spiritualists or supernatural agencies and to explain to the audience that they are nothing more than mere mechanical effects, sleight of hand tricks. If he succeeds in doing this much the performance is certainly worth the price of admission. Spiritualists and skeptics will no doubt have a great curiosity to witness the [illegible] and a crowded house can safely be [illegible] upon. Reserved seats [illegible] by calling this forenoon at either Gray's Music Store or Plunder Drug Store.

More Dissatisfied Stockholders

The latest mining company afflicted with the Dissatisfied fever is the Europa [illegible] the stockholders of that corporation having begun suit in the [illegible] district court asking that various alleged queer transactions of the directors be void and that the officers of the company be enjoined from collecting an assessment levied June 19, 1876 Judge Wheeler issued on Thursday the injunction prayed for, but modified it so that the delinquent list might be advertised but no stock sold without order from the court

Protest against Street Improvement.

The president of the Spring Valley Water Co has filed a protest against the proposed grading of Lombard street west of Leavenworth. The company has a reservoir on line of the proposed work which if carried out will necessitate draining the reservoir or leaving the upper portion of the city without water supply

Defaulting Assessor.

OAKLAND, July 29.—It is announced to-day that Edwin Hunt assessor of Oakland township, is defaulter in a very large sum The exact amount of his delinquencies cannot be definitely stated but it is known to be at least over $1,000 in the matter of poll taxes alone It is the second time Hunt has been short within the last three years

Rapid increase of Smallpox.

SAN FRANCISCO July 29.—The rapid increase of smallpox is causing considerable uneasiness in the city and there seems but one opinion that serious developments of the pestilence may be expected During the past week 94 new cases were reported, and 19 deaths, and it is believed that many cases exist that have never been reported No part of the city is free from the disease the best as well as the worst localities having furnished cases Yesterday 20 cases were reported at the health office and it is likely from the commencement made this morning that as many more will come in during the day Two physicians are in attendance at the health office from morning till night and hundreds are vaccinated daily Largely increased orders for vaccine matter are being sent East and just at present the supply is scarcely equal to the demand owing to orders forwarded from the interior of the State

News from China.

SAN FRANCISCO July 30.—The steamer Belgic arrived to-day from Hongkong via Yokohama She brought but 136 Chinese in the steerage

News from China is of considerable importance The British Commissioners sent to the Province of Yunna to investigate the murder of Mr Margery are daily expected at Shanghai with full particulars of the result of their mission, which is believed to have been a failure In the meantime the steamer Thomas Wade, with the British Minister has left Peking having for the present had broken off negotiations He has brought the archives of the legation to Shanghai, in case of hostilities breaking out between China and England which will probably be determined on the arrival of the commissioners, and disclosures made by them The result is awaited with deep anxiety Meantime the German minister is pressing the Chinese government severely in the matter of treaty revision demanding that all China be opened to foreigners for intercourse and trade, and that the nation adopt the responsibilities of international law

The rebels in Western China have succeeded in defeating and dispersing the whole imperial army the leader of which committed suicide in consequence

Prolonged drought in four densely populated provinces has destroyed crops over an extent of eight hundred square miles of country inhabited by seventy millions of people, who are threatened with the horrors of famine

A disastrous flood at Foo Chow and the surrounding country has devastated that region, causing immense loss of life and damage to property, over 5 000 dead bodies having been found near Foo Chow alone and, altogether, the Flowery Kingdom seems to be in a very bad way.

The manifestoes issued by the Chinese companies here have had great effect in discouraging immigration to California for the present at least.
